1254.6. (a) A hospital shall provide, free of charge, information and instructional materials regarding sudden infant death syndrome, as described in Section 1596.847, explaining the medical effects upon infants and young children and emphasizing measures that may reduce the risk.

(b) The information and materials described in subdivision (a) shall be provided to parents or guardians of each newborn, upon discharge from the hospital. In the event of home birth attended by a licensed midwife, the midwife shall provide the information and instructional materials to the parents or guardians of the newborn.

(c) To the maximum extent practicable, the materials provided to parents or guardians of each newborn shall substantially reflect the information contained in materials approved by the state department for public circulation. The state department shall make available to hospitals, free of charge, information in camera-ready typesetting format. Nothing in this section prohibits a hospital from obtaining free and suitable information from any other public or private agency.

SUBJECT: PROVIDING SIDS RISK REDUCTION INFORMATION TO PARENTS OF NEWBORNS: UPDATED

The California Department of Public Health and the California State Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS) Advisory Council are writing to all California hospitals to provide you the most current infant safe sleep and SIDS risk reduction information. To help reduce sudden unexpected deaths in infancy, the California Department of Public Health launched the "Back to Sleep" Campaign in 1994 to inform parents of infants about ways to reduce the risk of an infant dying from SIDS. This Campaign has dramatically decreased the number of babies dying from SIDS.

Enacted on July 1, 1998, Assembly Bill (AB) 757 requires all hospitals in California to provide SIDS risk reduction information to all parents of newborns. A copy of AB 757 (California Health and Safety Code Sections 1254.6 and 1596.847), is enclosed. Since the implementation of AB 757, the efforts of many health professionals providing SIDS risk reduction information to parents of newborns on how to reduce the baby's risk of SIDS, the number and rate of SIDS deaths has declined. Between 1999 and 2012, SIDS rates have declined 29 percent in California.

To meet the requirements of AB 757, each hospital may use existing materials, or they may develop their own materials as long as the information is consistent with the 2011 American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP) "SIDS and Other Sleep-Related Infant Deaths: Expansion of Recommendations for a Safe Infant Sleeping Environment" messages, endorsed by the California Department of Public Health. Every hospital is responsible for the reproduction of any items they choose to distribute. The 2011 AAP recommendations and other appropriate SIDS risk reduction materials and resources can be accessed and downloaded at the following websites:

An infant safe sleep and SIDS risk reduction handout developed by the Safe to Sleep Campaign and a free materials order form are enclosed for your reference.

In addition to the distribution of risk reduction information, the California Department of Public Health encourages hospitals to continue policies that require their personnel to model safe to sleep practices to encourage parents to adopt these practices at home. Sample hospital safe sleep policies and procedures, referencing 2005 AAP recommendations regarding safe sleep, are available from the First Candle/SIDS Alliance website:

If you would like additional information or need assistance in obtaining infant safe sleep and SIDS risk reduction materials or professional training resources, please contact the California SIDS Program at (800) 369-SIDS (7437). Thank you very much for providing SIDS risk reduction information to parents of newborns. Your efforts help contribute to the decline in SIDS rates.

Sincerely,

Addie Aguirre

SUBJECT: PROVIDING SIDS RISK REDUCTION INFORMATION TO PARENTS OF NEWBORNS (California Health and Safety Code Sections 1254.6 and 1596.847)

This letter is in reference to California Health and Safety Code Sections 1254.6 and 1596.847, which requires all hospitals in California to provide Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS) risk reduction information to all parents of newborns. A copy of California Health and Safety Code Sections 1254.6 and 1596.847 (HSC §1254.6 & 1596.847), which was enacted on July 1, 1998 pursuant to AB 757, is enclosed. At the time this legislation went into effect all California hospitals received a letter from the California Maternal and Child Health Program with samples of SIDS risk reduction materials for distribution to parents of newborns.

To help reduce sudden unexpected deaths in infancy, the California Department of Public Health launched the "Back to Sleep" Campaign in 1994 to inform parents of infants about ways to reduce the risk of an infant dying from SIDS. This Campaign has dramatically decreased the number of babies dying from SIDS. Since the implementation of HSC §1254.6 & 1596.847, the efforts of many health professionals providing SIDS risk reduction information to parents of newborns have contributed to the decline in the number and rate of SIDS deaths. Between 1999 and 2007, SIDS rates have declined 29 percent. However, SIDS was still the second leading cause of death for infants between 28 days of age to less than one year of age in 2007 in California, indicating the need for continuous efforts to decrease SIDS deaths.

The California Department of Public Health and the California State SIDS Advisory Council are writing to all California hospitals to remind you that providing SIDS risk reduction information to parents of newborns is required under California law. To meet the requirements of HSC §1254.6 & 1596.847, each hospital may use existing materials, or they may develop their own materials as long as the information is consistent with the American Academy of Pediatrics "Safe Sleep Top Ten" messages, endorsed by the California Department of Public Health. Every hospital is responsible for the reproduction of any items they choose to distribute.
